Moïse Jacobber

Pair of mounted vases

Pair of mounted vases from the Royal Porcelain Manufactory of Sèvres, presented in 1845, by King Louis-Philippe I, to His Highness Abbas Pacha (1813-1854), future Viceroy of Egypt. 1844-45, Hard porcelain and chiseled and gilded bronze, 82.5 × 45 cm.

PRESENTED BY STEINITZ GALLERY (STAND 212)

This magnificent pair of “Cordelier” vases (3e grandeur) exemplifies the brilliance of the Royal Porcelain Manufactory of Sèvres in the mid-19th century. Lavishly adorned with garlands of flowers and fruit painted by Moïse Jacobber, the vases combine virtuoso floral decoration with a commanding form created in 1805. Their spectacular bronze handles, modelled with Dionysian masks inspired by antiquity, harmonise with the opulent painted surface, uniting classical references with refined Romantic era craftsmanship.
